Question 2 Part	Marks awarded	Marks available	Comments
(a)	3	10	The response has not been developed appropriately. The emphasis of the response is on microeconomics although the question relates to macroeconomics. There is some attempt to use a diagram although it is not applied in the proper context. Some attempts are made to address the issue of competition domestically and internationally. Some relevant terms are included and applied. The response, however, indicates little understanding of the specific demands of the question.
(b)	3	15	This response indicates very little understanding of the specific demands of the question. A low-level understanding is provided of how subsidies might create jobs. However, there is no use of a real-world example, and there is no evidence of synthesis or evaluation. The response does not address what the most appropriate way to lower unemployment might be.
